FUNDRAISING EVENT IDEAS

DON'T FORGET: This list has been sent to your email for future reference.

Introduction

Fundraising event ideas have become a staple in many organizations as a way to help with fundraising event planning, entertaining, and engaging your donors.

The key to having a successful fundraising event is by encouraging engagement while still keeping it fun. If you can't get your attendees engaged then your event will quickly lose steam. So make your initiatives fun, try new ideas and see what your donors value the most.

One idea to get you started is to use text reminders and more traditional promotional channels to boost participation which is the first step in guaranteeing the success of your event.

Below is a list of fun event fundraising ideas that you can easily implement at your organization. Whether you're a small or large nonprofit, there's definitely something here that will be sure to fit for your mission.

Fundraising Event Ideas From A to Z

5K Run/Walk

Low-cost with high ROI...easy to promote fundraising event idea...team crowdfunding fun for all ages. A 5K Run/Walk fundraising event can be all these things for your organization. Not only can you raise funds for your cause by incorporating crowdfunding into your fundraising event, but through the sharing of your campaign by participants with their network of friends and family, you'll also organically raise awareness for your org's mission.

First choose the size and location of an event you can reasonably manage. Then save a date and set some realistic fundraising goals. Themes add an extra element of fun...survival races and fun runs seem to attract more participants!

Here's what you need:

- Location, Theme & Fundraising Goals
- Sponsorship sign-up form
- Participant sign-up form
- Crowdfunding teams
- First-aid staff/insurance/safety plans
- Pre-scheduled mobile messages with event info like event location and route maps

Finding sponsors will help you stick to your budget, raise more money and promote your race. Sponsorship sign-up forms make the collection and organization of information simple plus mobile-first design and shareable links let sponsors come onboard from any mobile device or computer.

Communicate event information with everyone through pre-planned mobile messaging that includes event location and race route maps to make sure participants have everything they need to stay on-track. During the event, you can also send update texts so everyone from participants to supporters (even the cheerleaders on the sidelines) can keep track of the progress until everyone reaches the finish line.

50/50 Raffle

Your first step in planning a 50/50 raffle is to check your local and state laws to verify that this type of fundraiser is permitted in your area. If you have the green light, then get ready for a fundraising event idea that is fun, fast and easy. Either hold it yourself or approach community businesses such as theaters, music venues, and sporting events that generate a lively crowd, to hold it for you.

Here's what you need:

- Raffle tickets. You can typically find these at your local party supply store. Make sure to get the kind that is double-rolled, with pairs of tickets displaying the same numbers – one to get tossed into a container for the drawing and the other for the lucky buyer to keep.
- A bucket, bowl, hat, fishbowl or other large container.
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for collecting ticket purchases via credit card (because not everyone carries cash these days)

Here's how it works:

- Supporters purchase raffle tickets (usually $1, $5, or $10 each, or in bundled packs like 5 $5 tickets for a discounted price of $20).
- They write their name and mobile number on the back side of the ticket they're going to toss into the drawing.
- The winning ticket number is drawn after ticket sales close with the winner splitting the net proceeds 50/50 with the organization.
- Encourage supporters to use Mobile messaging to notify the lucky winner too.

You can increase the number of raffle tickets sold by letting supporters know they don't have to be present to collect their prize because you can contact them via text message on their mobile phones to let them know they've won.

Alumni Mixer

Alumni networking mixers are a fun and pressure-free way for students and past graduates to connect, get to know each other and begin cultivating relationships that can last a lifetime. They're also an excellent opportunity to ask for support from your school's biggest fans to carry on a legacy of helping other soon-to-be grads from their beloved alma mater.

Consider holding your alumni fundraising event at an on-campus location – you'll not only save money on the event, but you'll make your alumni's connection back to their school more poignant. Here's what you're going to need:

- Campus location or rented space (more costly)
- Food & drink, potentially alcoholic beverages for cocktails
- Decorations with school colors and mascots, including a Welcome Back banner
- Digital invitation and ticketing
- Entertainment based on size of space
- Pre-event mobile-friendly donation form
- Monitors showing photos & videos & live fundraising thermometer

Long before the day of your event, start texting alums updates with current initiatives, inspirational reminders of the impact their school makes in the lives of students, and of course to invite them to the fundraising mixer. When you post your event invitations on your school's website and social media pages and include any alumni newsletters or email blasts, and make sure to text everyone involved to ensure they don't miss the event.

To reach as many potential attendees as possible, validate all the phone numbers in your student and alum rolls to verify which ones are mobile phone numbers.

During the event, video monitors set up in strategic locations display the live fundraising thermometer showing the real-time progress of alumni donations along with compelling images of the end-result of what can be accomplished when goals are met.

Auctions

Fundraising auctions can take on various forms like live, ballroom, online, sealed bid or silent auctions. One thing is certain, they can all deliver big results.

Here's what you'll need:

- Event RSVP form
- Auction items
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for winning auction payment processing
- Mobile marketing before the auction with event info. & sneak peeks of items via mobile messages
- Subscription keyword for anyone interested in staying connected with your org

Deciding on the type of auction (traditional, silent, online, etc.) that'll work best for your organization is a great place to start. Next, pick your theme, location and fundraising auction event date.

For auction items, reach out to sponsors, supporters, corporations, local businesses and the community. Gift baskets make great packages for auctioning off and are perfect for groups of individuals to assemble and donate. You can also collect donations of themed items and assemble the baskets yourself.

An event RSVP form or registration form will be necessary whether you are holding your auction as the event or incorporating it into a larger celebration. Use mobile marketing to help generate a buzz of excitement before the event by allowing sneak peeks of auction items and a chance to get in on any exclusive, pre-event auction opportunities.

Before your auction attendees leave, ask them to text a subscription keyword so they can stay connected with your organization and receive important updates & other valuable messages from you all year long!

Bachelor / Bachelorette Auction or Raffle

Auctioning or raffling off eligible bachelors/bachelorettes for a great cause can be a fun and entertaining, and surely one of the hottest fundraising events you'll ever host (with or without the rose ceremony). Participants are asked to bid or buy tickets for the chance to win a fabulous date with the volunteer bachelor/bachelorette of their choice.

Here's what you need:

- Auction location
- Eligible men and women willing to donate a date with a supporter
- Mobile-friendly date registration and activity interest survey
- Date package sponsors for fun activities and meals

A good way to get your for-profit partners involved in this type of fundraising event is to ask local restaurants and businesses to donate or sponsor date packages. Their involvement will help raise awareness and add to the quality experience of the winners' dates. If you've decided on an auction, a live event thermometer can help you capture and display the winning bids (pledges) for each bachelor and bachelorette. Just watch the excitement build as it shows each bid getting you closer to reaching your fundraising event goal. Another way to run this event is to assign a keyword to each bachelor/bachelorette for easy capturing of text-to-donate raffle entries. You can then use real-time reporting and a third-party randomizer to select a winner.

Bake Sales

Bake sales are one of the most cost-effective (and delicious!) fundraisers your organization can hold because they require little to no money as most, if not all, of the bake sale goods are donated by volunteer bakers.

Survey your supporters early on to find out who can bake and what items they'd like to bring to the sale. You can customize your survey form to ask for a first and second baked good choice to ensure a variety of items like chocolate cakes, oatmeal cookies, fudge brownies, apple pies to name a few instead of ending up with 20 very similar coconut cream pies.

Here's what you will need:

- Volunteer Baker sign-up/survey form
- Head Chef assigned to organize the rest of the bakers
- Additional event volunteers to help with set-up and clean-up
- A clean location for the sale in a high foot traffic spot
- Tables w/tablecloths to display your yummy items
- Small index cards to list out ingredients to alert for allergies
- Paper plates, napkins & plastic silverware
- Beverages – water, tea, coffee, etc...
- Plastic wrap and/or bags for baked goods
- Attendee sign-up form

Either have a tablet available for attendee registration/sign-up or have your volunteers manning the entrance use their mobile phones to collect vital information from new supporters so you can reach out to them in the future. Let your head chef be in charge of coordinating the receipt of donated items on the day of your bake sale and make sure the goodies are laid out neatly so buyers/donors have easy access to all the selections.

Basketball Hoops for Hope Game

Who needs Shaq and Kobe when you have your awesome supporters? Your organization can quickly raise money and awareness for your cause with a friendly round of hoops.

Here's what you need:

- Basketball court (check availability at local schools, gyms, recreation centers and parks)
- Player registration and team crowdfunding forms
- Volunteer sign-up form
- Mobile, print, and social media marketing strategy

2 to 3 weeks before your fundraising event, post flyers that include your keyword and shortcode text directions and/or a QR code linked to your mobile-friendly registration form. Hang them in local stores, gyms, sports centers, and restaurants. Better yet – invite registrants to sign up directly on a team crowdfunding page, which will empower them to start fundraising on behalf of your cause.

With crowdfunding as your registration mechanism, you can set a minimum donation goal as a requirement for playing on the team. Remember, the average crowdfunding individual raises $612 with all donations are securely routed to your org's merchant services account. You also get to keep all the donor data since it can be easily added to your org's CRM.

Battle of the Bands

If you're looking to raise awareness and funds for your cause with a diverse audience, a battle of the bands fundraising event idea is one that will not disappoint. You'll have the opportunity to raise money from band entry registration fees, ticket sales and crowdfunding donations raised by the acts and their fans as a way to cast votes in their favor.

Here's what you need:

- A fun venue
- Equipment and PA system (or ask bands to bring their own)
- Mobile-friendly sign-up/audition participation form
- Crowdfunding team forms & keywords (per band for voting purposes)
- Mobile-friendly ticketing forms that feature sponsors & partners

Your venue availability and selection will determine the size of your event or vice versa. Try school gyms, community halls, malls (think outdoor summer concert series-style), or local coffee shops, which may offer discounted or donated space in exchange for extra foot traffic/business. Their contribution as a sponsor can be recognized event digital donation forms, social posts, and promotional material for your battle of the bands fundraising event.

Reach out to restaurants and businesses (esp. music related ones) in the community for prizes for contestant performers and crowd raffles. Throw some love their way in return by including them in social posts, on your digital forms and mobile-friendly Thank Yous.

Share your mobile-friendly participation form keyword and link with local schools, music stores and academies and music venues to promote your event and recruit talent. Who knows? Top-quality talent may be hiding right in your organization's own backyard. Don't feel like you're limited to just bands. Recruit solo musicians, dance troupes, spoken word artists/poets, and even magicians to participate. Each act can receive a mobile-friendly crowdfunding page they can customize and promote to their own network of friends, family, loyal fans and supporters.

The winner will be determined by the audience who will cast their votes via the donations they make to your cause. The band with the most donors or highest donation total wins!

Bingo

Everybody LOVES Bingo! Create admission packages that include entry to your event, a book of bingo game sheets and an added bonus, like a dauber or a ticket for a complimentary refreshment. Packages can be pre-sold at the door or via a mobile-friendly donation form. Selling individual bingo game cards gives serious players additional chances to win and can be a great source for additional donation revenue.

Need a bingo caller or ticket seller? Ask volunteers to sign up via your custom volunteer sign-up form that includes a checklist of areas of interest for which you'll need help during the event.

Here's what you need:

- Bingo game & playing cards
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for selling bingo cards and concessions via credit card
- Digital volunteer sign-up form
- Prizes! (cash, donated items, etc.)

Be sure to check local laws and licensing requirements to determine requirements for bingos in your area.

Caroling for a Cause

Spreading the holiday spirit and raising money for your organization couldn't be more fun than caroling for a cause. If your group of spirited singers can go door-to-door in your community, at each stop, you can let your audience know how easy it is for them to text your keyword to make a donation. It can also be as easy as opening the doors to your offices and stepping outside if you're in an area that gets good foot traffic. Contact your Chamber of Commerce to see if your group can visit local businesses with the gift of song in exchange for their support to promote your fundraising campaign.

You can also let your community audience control your playlist. Before your song-filled event, let the members of your community know they can text a keyword to receive a message with a mobile-friendly form they can use to add their song of choice for the caroling event.

Here's what you need:

- Branded keyword for donations and requests
- Carolers
- Portable music device & speakers, or go acapella!

This type of fundraising event is perfect for religious group choirs, high school glee clubs, local music talent and family & friends. Together, they can multiply their voices to help raise awareness, funds, and holiday spirits for your cause.

Charity Calendar

Calendars are one of the easiest annual fundraising event ideas that your organization can implement, even with a small budget. They can be enjoyed every day of the year, and will help to keep your mission visible to them all year long.

You have two options for producing your calendars and here's what you'll need to know and do for each one:

Option 1: Using a calendar production service

- Start Year and Month for your calendar
- Whether you want to include Holidays
- Special dates you want to add like upcoming fundraising events
- Compelling cover photo & inside photos if layout requires them
- Your organization logo Your contact information and website url
- Text to keyword and shortcode to subscribe for updates
- Consider sponsorship opportunities to cover the printing costs in exchange for advertisement

Option 2: Do-it-Yourself!

- Quality color printer
- 8 ½ x 11 matte-paper, 24# or more
- Compelling photo(s) – if possible, you can also use artwork created by supporters or beneficiaries
- Photo calendar template (Shutterfly, MS Office)
- List of holidays & special dates you will include
- Your organization logo Your contact information and website url
- Text to keyword and shortcode to subscribe for updates

Regardless of which production method you use, the most important element is the imagery you include in your calendar. Choose images that are compelling and tell your organization's story in ways that inspire supporters and keep them emotionally connected to your cause. Once the calendars are available, ask local vendors to support

Chores for Charity

Nobody likes doing chores. But if you have a group of families, business partnerships or community members willing to donate their time and handy skills in exchange for donations to your org, then you have yourself a great handyman/chores services fundraiser!

Here's what you need:

- Worker volunteer sign-up form
- Work Request submission form
- Mobile messaging reminders for service scheduling & updates

Start by gathering volunteer interests with a digital sign-up form, or decide on the types of services and scope of work your volunteers are willing to perform.

Next, your org should assign a minimum donation value to each task and build your custom mobile-first work request form for supporters to request a service and make a donation.

Exporting organized work request data from your account makes it easy to track projects and schedule service dates. Plus, you can upload donor and volunteer information for mobile messaging so you can send scheduling reminders and updates.

Ask community members, especially the elderly, if they have a decorating, cleaning, small repairs, yard work or other odd jobs in need of completion. Local businesses might even be interested in sponsoring a clean-up of a public space that would benefit the community.

Share the link to your mobile-first Work Request submission form through email and on all social media channels. Ask supporters to instruct friends and family to text your corresponding keyword & shortcode. They can also share the link to your form. Make sure you include website or form URL, keyword, shortcode, text instructions, and your QR code on any posters that you create for your event.

Cupcake Wars

This friendly and deliciously sweet competition is sure to add a little sugar to your fundraising goals.

Here's what you'll need:

- Master baking teams' & judges' crowdfunding pages
- Viewer ticketing form
- Prizes
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for concessions payment processing
- Venue with ovens & kitchen space (or have contestants pre-bake cupcakes, then make frosting and other goodies they can use to decorate their entries during competition)

Before the event, promote your keyword & shortcode and sign-up link supporters can use to crowdfund for the chance to be an official judge.

In addition to judging and elimination rounds to determine the winner of the ultimate cupcake war, have baking teams crowdfund before and during the event in lieu of votes. Ask teams to sell tickets to family and friends for the event with a minimum donation on their page and a RSVP option on the form. A reward can be given to the team with the most donors or highest donation total.

Your organization can easily create a branded form to sell tickets to the general public for the delectable event.

Since the sweet smells of the baking goodies will leave the crowds hungry, be sure to offer concession items, coffee, beverages and cupcakes (of course) for sale. A credit card swiper and integrated fundraising app will instantly turn any mobile device into a digital register.

Dodge Ball Tourney

This is a simple and fun competition idea for all ages.

Here's what you'll need:

- Handballs or Volleyballs
- Court (Indoor or Outdoor)
- Prize
- Mobile-friendly sign-up/audition participation form
- Crowdfunding team forms & keywords (per band for voting purposes)
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for concessions payment processing

For this event you can charge people to sign up either per person or per team. You can do this easily with an online payment form on your website.

To increase participation you can have different levels of competition and age groups to make it more appealing to a wider audience. Encourage them to share the event with their friends and family to attend. They can even create crowdfunding pages to raise money for the organization before the tournament. You can donate to them as a vote for them to win or the team that raises the most money gets an advantage in the tournament.

At the event you can sell snacks and drinks on the side to increase the money raised at the event. A credit card swiper and integrated fundraising app will instantly turn any mobile device into a digital register for these purchases.

For a fun prize you can get a bowling trophy and modify the arm to make it look like it is throwing a dodgeball. You can also have another low cost prize like a t-shirt.

Dorm Decorating Tours

College students are not particularly known for keeping their rooms nice and neat, but when you challenge them to decorate those rooms so that other students, friends and family can vote on as the coolest, most unique or creative, you might be surprised by how quickly things can change, and it's all being done for a good cause.

Students should be as creative as possible as long as they follow all fire, safety and set dorm rules and regulations. Here's how it will work:

- Set up a Dorm Room Tour fundraising page and promote it to potential contestants with a text-to keyword shared via social media, newsletters and bulletin boards.
- Students who text the keyword will immediately receive a link they can use to sign-up for the contest and to create their own personalized dorm voting (fundraising team) page.
- Dorm room entrants can post photos and videos of their decorating in progress on social media to encourage friends and family to vote for their room by donating money for the cause via their own personalized keyword.
- Each dollar donated counts as a vote for the dorm room of choice.
- Live stream the dorm room tour to encourage voting (donations) up to the last minute.

Once you are ready to announce the winning dorm room(s), live stream the presentation to the winners, who you can prompt to make one last real-time plea on your behalf to ask that donations keep coming in to support your program.

Duct Tape the Principal or Coach to the Walls

For your students and faculty alike, duct taping their principal to a wall is a fun way to raise funds for a school program or other great cause. It also helps the authority figure show their silly side while calling attention to a need for financial support.

Plus since the usual going price for a piece of duct-tape is only $1, just about everyone can join in on the sticky fun. Here's what you'll need:

- An authority figure with a big sense of humor
- Sturdy step stool
- Volunteers to get the tape-sticking process started
- 5-10 rolls of duct tape in different colors and patterns to make the finished product a work of art
- Open wall space that won't be damaged by the tape
- Painter's coveralls
- A fan and cold water

Start by having the intended taped victim wear the painters coveralls to protect their clothes. Since it gets warm under the tape, they may want to wear a cool tee shirt and shorts underneath to stay as cool as possible during the taping. That's also the reason to have a fan and cool water standing by so you can keep your principal comfortable during the fundraising stunt.

Have your principal stand on the stool in front of your open wall space and start taping. You can let donors have the honor of taping the victim or you can designate an official "taper" who will do all of the duct taping throughout the event.

Once you're sure there's enough tape to hold your school's fearless leader, carefully remove the step stool and admire your duct tape masterpiece!

Record the event so you can add the video to a mobile-friendly fundraising form you can use after your event to share with parents and other supporters outside of school via email and social media. They'll love to see your principal's commitment to doing everything it takes to raise money for the school and be encouraged to help with additional donations.

Funny Family Photos

If you've ever visited a theme park or other amusement attraction, you've probably seen the fancy photo booths where the family is all dressed up in western gear, standing in front of a saloon backdrop, or wearing vintage, glitzy 1920's garb while posing with machine guns a la Bonnie and Clyde.

Your organization can create its own funny family photo fundraiser that will provide supporters a hilarious memento that will keep your mission top of mind for generations to come. Here's what you're going to need:

- Online registration form that families can use to register and pay for their photo
- Free scheduling app like Calendly
- Digital camera or hi-pixel count smartphone, computer and printer
- Photographer – an amateur one will work great!
- Volunteer photo assistants
- Photo shoot location
- Costumes or costume pieces in different sizes
- Funny props like a plastic western six-shooter, princess wand, foam sword, or even a rubber chicken
- Digital camera or a smartphone with a high-pixel-count camera with USB cord
- Computer and printer

Before your event, text your supporters a link they can click through to go to the registration page. Customize the thank you page with a link to an automated scheduling app like Calendly, where you can preset the hour of photographer availability and where supporters can choose a timeslot for their photo shoot.

Encourage supporters to share their behind-the-scenes photos & videos to their network of family, friends, and colleagues.

When deciding how you will print your photos, consider using/purchasing a photo printer with Bluetooth capability, which will allow you to pair your camera/phone to allow for instantly-printed photos. Do share the funniest shots on your organization's social pages with information about your next planned photo shoot event.

Fashion Show

There's no trendier way to raise funds for your cause than with a charity fashion show.

Here's what you'll need before you hit the runway:

- Sponsored, crafted or borrowed outfits and accessories
- Catwalk space & venue (think outside the box)
- Model sign-up form
- Digital event ticketing form
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for ticketing and other in-person payment processing

Local boutiques often lend clothes for charity fashion shows or you can ask your event's models to bring their own creative outfits. Typically models have 2 or 3 changes during a show, so keep that in mind when planning the number participants and length of show you want to produce.

Anyone can be a model in your fashion show fundraising event. Flatter family, friends, donors and community members by asking them to participate. You can collect participant information with a mobile-first sign-up form that can be shared via keyword and shortcode on printed posters or for those in-person asks, and through shortened links for social posts and mobile messaging.

Sell tickets before your event by sharing your digital form across every channel of communication imaginable. For purchases at the door, use a credit card swiper and an integrated fundraising app to keep sales records organized in one convenient place. Credit card swipers will also come in handy for concessions and boutique sales during or after the event.

Flamingos

Cover peoples yard with several plastic flamingos and have a card on it that has options to give money. For example you can have ask for $25 to have the members of your organization remove the birds and put them in someone else's yard, or any amount of money to have them removed... or anything you want. It is fun to see how people get one another and how much money is raised.

Here's what you'll need for this fun harmless prank event:

- Plastic lawn flamingos
- Addresses of friends, family, donors org members who would want to participate
- Flamingo victims suggestion form
- Flamingo installers sign-up form
- Mobile swiper and integrated app in-person payment processing

This is a really fun event for many organizations. Many people in your organization are going to want to participate in putting these flamingos on their friends lawn or suggesting friends to have it done to.

You are going to want to have a suggestion form for people to suggest who's lawn to put these flamingos on. To increase donations you can ask for a fee to suggest a Flamingo victim. For example "Donate $5 or $10 to have your friend's lawn's covered in Flamingos." Use can use an online form and custom fields to accept credit card donations as well as the victim's address information.

Then once you have these Flamingos installed across the community you want to allow these people to donate in order to put them on someone else's lawn or removed. One way they can notify you is by leaving your phone number or they can text a keyword to notify your organization to remove them. Then once you at the victim's house you can accept their donation. If they want to use a credit card you can bring a mobile credit card swiper.

Gala

A staple fundraising event, galas usually mean elegant, themed evenings that can include dinner, dancing, entertainment, silent auctions, raffles and more, all for a good cause. Make your gala more meaningful to your supporters by choosing a venue and a theme that fits your mission, then connect them to your cause through subtle detail in decorations, menu selection, and entertainment. You can also use the power of text messaging to build excitement and anticipation in the weeks and days leading up to your gala to sell more tickets and ensure a good turnout for a successful fundraising event.

Here's what you need:

- A venue that fits the size of your event
- Volunteer & event committee sign-up forms
- Mobile-friendly ticketing forms that feature sponsors & partners
- Strategic mobile messaging for pre- and post-event supporter engagement or last-minute updates
- Subscription keyword to keep in touch with people that want more info. from your org all year long
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for auction, raffle, and on-the-spot donation payment processing

Galas are not one-person tasks. Enlist the help of a committee of passionate and hard-working volunteers to carry out every aspect of planning, decorating, clean-up, follow-up and everything in between. Mobile forms will make it easy to sign up volunteers and match their talents/skills with areas of need.

Don't be shy about asking for in-kind donations, favors, and additional help from your community.

- Local newspapers and tv/radio stations are valuable sources for pre-event marketing and Master of Ceremonies talent.
- A silent auction and raffle items or baskets are a great way for businesses of any size to contribute to your cause.
- Food and beverage donations at your event help cut major costs and highlight local fare.
- Sponsor and partner logos can be incorporated and featured on your mobile-friendly ticketing and donation forms, as well as event signage and printed programs.

Mobile-friendly forms securely capture donations and donor data during the peak emotional moments. At the same time, results are displayed and donors are recognized on your projected real-time event thermometer. Share buttons on the 'Thank You' page give donors the option to share their passion for your org with friends – helping your fundraiser reach beyond the walls of your event. Finally, recorded donor data allows you to reach out to supporters throughout the year with Thank You's, updates and info on future events.

Games Night

Finally! A family-friendly version of the popular Vegas-style casino fundraising event that kids of all ages will enjoy!

Here's what you need:

- Board games, decks of cards and/or trivia questions (donated or borrowed from volunteers)
- Admission or ticketing registration
- Competition entry form
- Volunteer scorekeepers

Mobile swiper and integrated app for bake sale, concessions and raffle sales

Advertise with a quick mobile message to current supporters in your database, across your social media channels and in community centers, schools, bookstores, businesses, and restaurants. Including a link, QR code and or keyword with shortcode instructions will instantly put your mobile-friendly donation/ticketing form in the hands of anyone interested in your event.

Enlist volunteer scorekeepers and concession stand bakers/sellers. A mobile fundraising app and integrated swiper can turn anyone's smartphone into a POS sales system – perfect for concession sales.

Game nights are great recurring fundraisers that can easily turn into regularly held competitive gaming rounds. Another way to go would be to make your games night fundraising event 100% digital by hosting a video game tournament.

Golf Tournament

Whether it's a round of Stableford, a big ole' game of Money Ball or a little Scramble, pulling off a successful, stress-free golf event that suits your organization's needs requires 9-12 months of planning, a committee to manage the plan, and plenty of volunteers to carry it out.

Must-haves for a successful golf fundraising event include:

- Goals & timing. What's your angle of approach? Your target line? Have a plan of attack before things get swinging.
- A course that'd make any player who can't attend, green with envy
- Digital forms for easy registration, volunteer sign-ups, and post-event surveys
- Mobile marketing and messaging for effective event promotion, volunteer/committee/ player updates and follow-up engagement
- Sponsors/Partners...you don't have to do this alone (we don't recommend it, either)
- Event enhancements to enhance your fundraising
- Prizes....everyone loves to win something!

In addition to selling individual tickets, customize your mobile-friendly forms for twosomes, threesomes, and foursomes, making it easy for teams to sign up and for you to sell out your event. You can also approach local businesses and community groups who may want to sponsor teams to support your event. You can award trophies for the foursome who raises the most money, gets the highest number of individual donors to contribute and most creatively shares their custom fundraising donation form over social media.

How about replacing your registration process by asking participants to set up crowdfunding teams instead? You can set a minimum base goal per virtual fundraising ambassador in place of, or in addition to, minimal registration fees.

Haunted House

Set up a scare-fest that'll raise funds instead of the undead.

Here's what you need:

- Halloween decorations – including a fog machine or dry ice for extra creepy effects
- Space for your haunted house/hallway (school gyms, hallways, an office lobby, pop-up tents, etc. work...be creative!)
- Admission donation form
- Ghoulish volunteers
- Entrance banner with house of horror's name, hours of haunting and announcement of the event's charity focus

Before you begin, create a frighteningly awesome donation form as your ticketing system for admission to your haunted house. Set up and decorate the exterior and interior of your event space. Go traditional or create a twisted theme for extra screams! Save your organization some money by asking supporters and the community for decoration donations or loans of their own spooky stuff.

Once volunteers sign up on your mobile-friendly form, you can put their talents for terror to good use by matching their areas of interest with event tasks and decorating needs. Update your vampires...err, volunteers...with event details (like assigned scare zone schedules) with mobile messaging.

Moving for a Cause

Most people can always use an extra hand when moving. Gather a team of strong men and women to do some heavy-lifting to help the community (and your cause). HINT: Fit and capable high school or college athletes make great movers.

Here's what you need:

- Volunteer sign-up form
- Moving Request form
- Mobile messaging reminders for service scheduling & updates

In exchange for a donation fee, community members can fill out a moving request form to designate the type of help they need. Maybe it's boxes that have to be packed or unpacked. Or they're looking for some extra help to reorganize their attic, basement or garage. Perhaps the local elderly support group might want to hire out your volunteers to carry in groceries for their clients.

Collect information regarding volunteer availability, physical capabilities and areas of expertise on the sign-up form to help you match volunteers with moving job requests.

Information about your org's moving services can be shared with supporters, staff and volunteers via text and email. You can ask interested moving clients to connect and donate to your cause via keywords and shortcodes for respective donation/sign-up forms, URL links to the form and a QR code for printed media like event posters or flyers.

Use mobile messaging to send scheduling reminders and updates to volunteers and donors.

Obstacle Course

Instead of your normal race event, raise the bar with an obstacle course event that will challenge participants in exciting and rewarding ways. Psychological studies have proven that harder, painful and unpleasant events attract more participation and support because people are drawn to a challenge.

Here's what you'll need:

- Obstacles course (rented or made)
- First-aid staff/insurance/safety volunteer form
- Ninja warrior team crowdfunding pages
- Crowd support ticketing
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for in-person ticket sales and concession item credit card payment processing

Teams and individuals looking to participate can sign up through your mobile-first crowdfunding sign-up page. Sharing event information, team sign-up page and viewer ticketing form over mobile messaging, printed flyers, social and email is easy with an event keyword, link to your sign-up form and a QR code linked to the same form.

Decide on a location and date for your event. There are companies that can set up obstacle courses at your location of choice, or you can rent out an obstacle course facility for your organization to use. The location you choose will likely determine what type of obstacle course event you hold – mud pits, ropes, obstacle crawls, climbing walls...the harder and dirtier, the better! Encourage teams to fundraise their entry fee and additional support on behalf of your cause to create friendly competition even before the real competition begins.

Paintball

This is not a full fledged game with a ton of people needed. This is more of a shooting gallery where volunteers with suit up in protective gear in a makeshift paintball course. Then from 50 to 100 feet away from a table where people can pay $10 for 50 shots from a paintball gun.

Here's what you'll need:

- Obstacles (rented or made)
- First-aid staff/insurance/safety volunteer form
- Paintball Guns
- Paintballs
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for in-person ticket sales and concession item credit card payment processing

Individuals looking to participate can sign up to shoot through your mobile-first sign-up page. Here they can pay online for their turn at the shooting gallery. You can also use a swiper at the event to accept credit cards in-person.

Another way to increase donations is to setup difficult targets that are really difficult to hit and have participants pay extra to hit those targets. If they hit those targets they get a prize like you would do at a fair or carnival. A cheap stuffed animal or toy could be a great prize.

Sports Skills Clinic

Gather amateur and professional athletes, guest pros, coaches and trainers to host a techniques or skills clinic to help participants improve their game. Digital forms will help your organization keep all volunteer information organized and available at any time.

Here's what you'll need:

- Digital athlete mentor & trainer volunteer form
- Participant registration form
- Appropriate training or sports venue

This type of fundraising event works great for all sports whether basketball, baseball, soccer, football, wrestling, volleyball, tennis, hockey, swim, equine sports, surfing, track and field, dance or cheer teams. Decide on the type of clinic and age group (youth, teen, adult, all ages, etc.) you'll focus on. Then find a community venue like a gym, school physical education room, field, park, etc. that will happily host your event. Set up a mobile-first registration form with corresponding keyword and shortcode, QR code and URL link to share via email, mobile messaging, social media and posters placed in schools, sporting event venues and gyms.

Whether it's a half-day event or a week-long sports camp, your org can give less experienced athletes access to pro help to perfect their game while helping your org hit your event fundraising goal out of the park.

T-Shirt Sales to Show the Love

People love to get recognition for supporting the causes they care about, so why not let them show off with merchandise that also shares your message with the world. A cool tee-shirt featuring your logo, mascot or catchphrase can be a lucrative way to fund your organization's projects.

Here's what you're going to need:

- Plain tee-shirts to buy in bulk
- Printable iron on paper
- Iron and ironing board
- Promo banner for social media posts
- Digital order form

Buy tee-shirts in bulk to save money, you can then print them one-at-a-time using printable iron-on paper. Promote your custom tee's via email, on your website and social media pages by linking to a digital order form. In addition to selling your custom tee's, you can use them to incentivize donors by offering a free shirt if they give at a certain level.

Tee shirt sales are also a great way to boost fundraising for run-walk-rides. Allow participants to set up crowdfunding teams and on the thank you/confirmation page, include a link to an online form where they can order tee-shirts for featuring their team name.

Virtual Lemonade Stand

Avoid the hassles of bad weather, or like Jerry Seinfeld experienced, requiring a permit to have a sell your thirst-quenching refreshment with a virtual lemonade stand fundraising event powered by crowdfunding. Easily set up a virtual lemonade stand crowdfunding campaign and share it with your donors, volunteers and staff to empower them to create their own stand (crowdfunding donation page), which they can share with their social and professional networks.

Here's what you need:

- Crowdfunding keyword and donation page
- Logo or photo and any other elements to customize your campaign
- Consider making a video you can post to YouTube and share with your crowdfunders for encouragement and recognition.
- Also optional, Thank You cards for handwriting notes to donors.

It takes less than 5 minutes to set up a crowdfunding keyword and fundraising page, which you can customize with logos, images, buttons, colors, custom fields and other elements that will let your campaign stand out. Once your page is set up, you can invite a centralized group of your biggest supporters to kick-off your lemonade stand. Keep the momentum going with daily mobile messages, emails, Tweets, and Facebook posts that include tips, updates, words of encouragement for virtual fundraisers or links to videos. Don't forget to recognize donors during and after the campaign! Mention them on social media and even follow up with handwritten 'Thank You' cards for a truly memorable and personal show of gratitude. Each of your virtual lemonade sales persons (or crowdfunders) can raise an impressive average of $612 in donations. How's that for a little lemonade stand? Plus every donation counts towards the goal, no matter how big or small.

Wacky Wager

Wacky Wager crowdfunding can become one of your org's most fun and engaging fundraising ideas. Encourage individuals or teams to set mini fundraising goals and offer donors unconventional wacky incentives that will entice them to give. For example, it will be easy getting five people to donate $50 each to see a video of their friend ice skating in a tutu, or wearing bunny ears and communicating with only a made up language and hand gestures for an entire workday. Wacky Wager crowdfunding donors will have a ball competing to be the biggest contributor and the privilege of picking the temporary new hair color of their favorite volunteer crowdfunder.

Here's what you need:

- Mobile-friendly crowdfunding teams & keywords set up
- Creative goal ideas to get the craziness started
- Volunteer Crowdfunder social media account(s) where they can promote the wackiness

Leave it to your virtual fundraising ambassadors to come up with goal incentives or get them to let their own social network decide the wager at stake. Wacky wagers are lots of good, clean fun and a great way to share engaging pictures, videos and stories about your org and your fundraising efforts over social media.

Yard Sale

Gather some friends and start collecting all those unwanted items in search of a new owner. It's a great way to clear the clutter and create change!

Here's what you'll need:

- Rummage item donation sign-up
- Location for your yard sale
- Volunteer salesperson form
- Mobile marketing and event signage
- Mobile swiper and integrated app for secure credit card payment processing

Use mobile messaging to let supporters know about the sale and then designate a drop-off location or share your mobile-first item donation sign-up form so donors can request a pick-up. This is also a great time to start taking volunteer information through a digital form so you can easily access and organize information.

Then it's time to collect, sort & price donated items for the sale. Check items over for stains, broken/missing pieces and personal items that may have accidentally been left behind (money, receipts, etc.).

Promote the sale throughout your community using your social media channels, Craigslist, community event posting sites, newspaper ads, Penny Savers and printed flyers in local businesses. Don't forget to hang signs that effectively direct traffic to your sale.

On the day of the sale, have volunteer salespeople ready to display items on racks and tables. Organized items are easier for shoppers to see all the items and make purchasing decisions. With a mobile credit card swiper, integrated fundraising app and any mobile device you'll be able to securely accept credit payments all day long!
